

We are dreamers. We dream of a world where no child goes to bed hungry. A world governed by rule of law and not brute force. There is no war and no terror; discords are settled through amicable dialogues. Dr Martin Luther King's vision has materialized—no man is judged by the skin of his color but by the content of his character. Illiteracy has been eradicated. Clean water and clean air is within everyone's reach. There is no ugly poverty and no shameless gluttony of wealth, and in that world each one is the keeper of his brother.

This is our dream; but we firmly believe, this can be a reality if you share it. Will you?
